Strategic Leadership

We've combined top leadership development tools from our affiliates with our collaborative process approach to create high-energy programs that make strategic leadership an integral part of the culture of an organization.

Each-client specific program combines three core elements: Individual Leadership, Team Performance, and Organizational Leadership. We incorporate these elements in a highly interactive approach to help leadership teams develop the skills and working agreements they need to lead today's dynamic organizations.

Self Awareness

Self awareness is critical for the strategic leader. We help each member of the leadership team use feedback from those around them to develop a realistic understanding of their leadership effectiveness and to create plans to improve in the areas most important to their organization.

Team Performance

The effectiveness of the leadership team depends on teamwork. Demonstrable high leadership team performance also establishes a high performance culture for teams across an organization. We help leadership teams diagnose their own team performance, develop agreements to drive improvements, and provide experience in tools they can use throughout their organizations.

Organizational Leadership

Leading today's dynamic organizations requires an approach to leadership that is empowering to teams while providing an environment of support and guidance that ensures their success and keeps the organization working together efficiently. Clarity and consistency of approach across a leadership team reinforce culture and make clear how the organization is expected to function. We help leadership teams discuss and agree on the appropriate leadership approach for their organization and create the policies that will embed that approach in their organizations.

Industry-Leading Tools

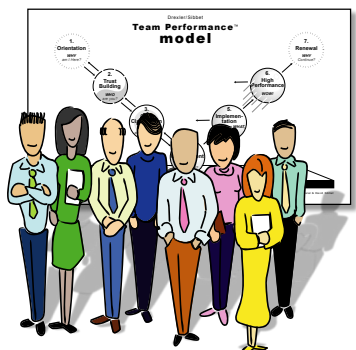

Strategy Arts incorporates industry-leading tools into our Leadership Programs, including the Center for Creative Leadership's Assessment Suite and Grove Consulting International's Drexler/Sibbet Team Performance® Model.
